SRLV supports touring artists with Centtrip

When your clients are on the road, around the clock, you need a payment solution that makes life simpler and safer.

“We’re on the end of the phone for everything,” says Lloyd Quilty, Director of the Music, Media and Entertainment practice at accountants SRLV.

The top 40 firm is a leading specialist in the sector, supporting performing artists, songwriters and professionals in every aspect of the industry.

Fellow director Grant Court explains, “Many of the creatives we deal with – such as songwriters or performers – don’t have their own accounts function. We often deal with all aspects of their accounting including cash management.”

“Part of our role,” Quilty says, “is to be the CFO of each client’s individual business, minimizing costs and maximizing revenues.”

Payments to keep pace with changing needs

Managing expenses can be an expensive headache for touring artists.

“Getting a card for a new tour member from a traditional card provider can sometimes take weeks to arrange.”

Time differences and the demands of a touring schedule means that artists seldom have time for any last-minute or ad hoc paperwork.

Tours are dynamic. Key personnel like tour managers may change for different legs; dates and venues can be added or canceled along the way.

“Getting a card for a new tour member from a traditional card provider can sometimes take weeks to arrange,” Quilty says.

SRLV needed a payment solution that would adapt quickly to clients’ needs, whether that was coping with logistical changes or simply enabling managers to reconcile tour expenditure while on the move.

“Centtrip understands what our clients need”

SRLV chose Centtrip. Its award-winning app gives SRLV and its clients real-time, anytime visibility and control over cards and expenses.

“Centtrip understood what our clients need,” Court explains. “The online account and app are easy to use, updated throughout the day and there is a great office support team for more complicated matters.”

Court, Quilty and their teams can now manage many of their clients' accounts from a single smartphone or desktop screen, seeing, reporting and reconciling transactions in real time. Each client account can have as many cards as required, with authorization hierarchies and individual card limits set, per card, for the unique needs of each account.

Designed for the demands of highly mobile individuals and organizations, the Centtrip prepaid Mastercard has the highest balances in the market. Up to $275,000 per day can be transferred instantly to a single or multiple cards. Cardholders can spend up to $250,000 in a single in-store or online transaction and can withdraw up to $5,000 per day from ATMs around the world.

New cards can be in users' hands within days of a request.

Centtrip helps tours run more smoothly

With the Centtrip app, authorized users have real-time, anytime visibility and control of transactions, making it easier for busy tour managers to catch up on their reporting, as Quilty explains:

"At the end of the night, after a gig, sitting on the tour bus, the tour manager can go onto the app and see what was spent that day: 'Oh yes, I'd forgotten about that, here's the receipt for this, there's the receipt for that.' Then, they can send it all across to us and it's done and dusted.

Using Centtrip's expense management capability, they can upload receipts direct from the mobile app saving even more time all round."

Centtrip's prepaid cards make cashless touring a reality, minimizing cash-related risk and insurance costs.

Prepaid cards can be issued in just days rather than weeks making it easy to respond to changes in personnel, schedules or ad hoc requirements. Funds can be transferred to and from cards instantly and individual cards can be locked or unlocked immediately from the Centtrip app.

And, as Quilty says, "Everything is transparent. There are no grey areas."

"At the end of the night, after a gig, sitting on the tour bus, the tour manager can go onto the app and see what was spent that day."

“Excellent customer service”

Centtrip is more than technology. It prides itself on its people and their knowledge of clients' sectors. It also understands the unique needs of traveling teams and crews, and of the organizations that support them.

“Centtrip's customer service is excellent,” Quilty says. “The team works hard and they deal with queries ridiculously quickly. They're always going above and beyond to make sure the clients are looked after.”

As Court concludes, “Centtrip offers competitive rates and a first-class service.”
